HAS KERENSKY BEEN DEFEATED OR DOES HE CONTROL PETROGRAD?

CONFLICTING REPORTS ON THE RUSSIAN REBELLION COMPLICATE THE SITUATION TODAY.

AUTHENTICITY LACKING

One Report Has Kerensky Defeated and Fleeing. The Second That He Controls—Which Is Correct.

Maximalist rule in Petrograd apparently is weakening as Premier Kerensky, at the head of loyal troops, advances from Gatchina, thirty miles southwest of the capital. Reports received in Finland and the Bolshevik movement has been overthrown. There is no confirmation of these reports, which are at variance with latest advices from Petrograd itself.

Are Entrenching.
The Bolsheviks are digging trenches and erecting barricades in preparation for a battle with the Kerensky forces. Fighting has occurred near the front between the revolutionists and Kerensky troops, but results are not known. Premier Kerensky's advance toward Petrograd caused the military council to rise on Sunday morning the Bolsheviks, although out-numbered, are fighting desperately for possession of the telephone exchange until either killed or captured. The Bolsheviks are said to be showing signs of disaffection with the Bolshevik rule and the leaders Lenin and Trotsky have sought a place of safety on cruisers in the river Neva.

Refuge.
The committee of public safety formed in Petrograd from elements opposed to the extremists is gaining ground and a number of members have come to Gatchina to attempt to arrange a compromise between Premier Kerensky and the Bolsheviks. In Moscow the conservative movement have formed a government which is reported to include some Bolshevik members.

Premier Kerensky retains the chief command of the Russian army and has established his headquarters at Gatchina. General Alexeev commander in chief, is with him.

Is in Petrograd.
Stockholm, Nov. 13.—Telegrams from Finland announce the arrival of Premier Kerensky in Petrograd with his troops. Finnish newspaper declare the Bolsheviks have been overthrown. Messages from Moscow and Petrograd announce the council of public safety has taken control of the city. Kerensky's Bolshevik troops and defeated badly at Petrograd.

Move to Moscow.
Another message says Premier Kerensky announced the seat of government will be removed to Moscow. General Kornilov and Kaledin have issued a proclamation urging the Russian people to unite against the Bolsheviks.

Copenhagen Dispatch.
Copenhagen, Nov. 13.—Premier Kerensky's troops are in control of Petrograd especially Neva-Selo. According to telegrams received here by the Stockholm agency and forwarded to Copenhagen. The Bolsheviks are said to have taken refuge in the Smolny Institute.

After bitter fighting near Tsarskoe-Selo the revolutionary army completely defeated the counter-revolutionary forces of Kerensky and Kornilov. The Russian government is now in the hands of the Bolsheviks.

The Announcement.
The announcement follows: "The revolutionary army has completely defeated the counter-revolutionary forces of Kerensky and Kornilov. In the name of the Russian people I order all revolutionary forces to unite against the Bolsheviks. I also forbid the use of force against the revolutionary army. The success of the revolution is the only way to the future of the Russian people."

Kerensky Retiring.
The communication goes on to say that history will record the night of November 12, 1917, as the day when the counter-revolutionary forces against the capital of the revolution were defeated. Kerensky is said to be fleeing from Petrograd and is taking the offensive. The Bolsheviks are said to be in control of the city.

The Bolsheviks have endeavored to separate the army from the revolution. Kerensky has attempted to break the Bolsheviks. Both the Bolsheviks and Kerensky have failed. The revolution is now in the hands of the Russian people.

Prominent Name.
Nauraviet is a prominent Russian name who has held high public office. Most of them, however, were connected with the old regime of the empire. It is further stated that the Bolsheviks are in control of the city.

Contradictory Reports.
Petrograd, Nov. 13.—The American general G. H. Gordon, telegraphed to the American government that he had seen Kerensky and that he was in control of the city.

It seems the government troops are winning. John F. Stevens is here but I cannot get in touch with him as the consulate is in the center of the fighting. All Americans are safe. It is rumored the Cossacks have already arrived.

Ambassador Francis, who says he will remain here to look after the interests of his government and the safety of American citizens, has received no offer from the Bolshevik government or any other government.

Confirm Dispatches.
London, Nov. 13.—A dispatch from the Copenhagen correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph company says that travelers arriving in Haparanda, Sweden, from Russia, confirm the report that Premier Kerensky has gained a complete victory over the Bolsheviks. It is said the premier, General Kaledin and General Kornilov have formed a government in Petrograd where all troops now side with Kerensky. It is reported Lenin has been captured.

The authority of these advices is on a question in view of the fact that no such developments are reported in dispatches filed in Petrograd as late as seven o'clock yesterday evening.

In Petrograd.
Stockholm, Nov. 13.—General Kornilov has entered Petrograd where the entire garrison except the sailors went over to his side according to a Petrograd dispatch to the Social Democratic union Monday's date.

There was sanguinary fighting on the Nevsky Prospekt and the Bolsheviks failed to hold the workingmen's quarter of the city.

The foreign ambassadors are now in communication with General Kornilov.

MUN PARTY LEADER FAVORS ANNEXATION

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Amsterdam, Nov. 13.—At a meeting of the new Fatherland party in Munich Admiral Tirpitz, former German minister of marine, made a violent annexation speech. He said the German people should be satisfied with the protector of Belgium would be the decisive issue of the war. "A mistaken solution of the Belgian question would prove sufficient to bring down the German empire," said the admiral. "Our military security lies in Belgium. It is the only way of obtaining compensation for our enormous economic losses," he added. "It was a mistake to believe that Germany could win the war by the submarine war. The great Britain as some effective counter weapon was sure to be discovered." He declares that Germany must have an answer that Austria will become the principle of the Danube and that Germany was interested in the settlement of the Adriatic question. "Germany must be able to hold its own in the Adriatic battle," he added. "The German people are all devouring tyranny of Anglo-Americanism."

SEC. BAKER'S REVIEW ON WAR SITUATION

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Washington, Nov. 13.—The effect of Germany's political offensive against Russia and Italy upon the task ahead of the United States is recognized in Secretary Baker's review of military operations issued today by the war department.

The close interrelation of events on the fronts cannot too frequently be emphasized.

"The political situation in Russia makes it possible for contingents in the Italian front. It is not unlikely that by initiating their powerful drive against the Italian forces the enemy attempts to undermine the morale of the Italian troops with a view to breaking down resisting power. Surveying the broader aspect of the situation we find the enemy in the west is confining its effort to political propaganda. Along the Italian sector he has recently made desperate attempts to secure a decision by means of a political-military drive in the west, while attempting to sap the fighting strength of the belligerent people, the enemy has now been compelled to act on the defensive and is slowly but surely being driven back."

AMERICAN TROOPERS GUARD TRENCHES AS WELL AS VETERANS

(BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.)
With the American Army in France, Nov. 13.—How a young American corporal, under fire for the first time in his life, and that only three hours after he had entered the trenches for the first time, battled bravely against five Germans, is told in a detailed report on the recent German trench raid received by a certain general.

The corporal was on duty at a listening post when the Germans began to barrage the first line.

An officer signalled the corporal to retire, but the latter misunderstood the order and remained at his post. Suddenly the barrage lifted and the Germans swarmed over the parapets, the corporal finding himself surrounded by five Germans who had cut off his retreat. The corporal's story is told at the military hospital where he is now recovering from his wounds, follows:

"A Boche made some sign at me as if calling for me to surrender. I answered by turning my rifle upon them and letting them have hell. Three of them went down in a row wounded and I was just drawing a bead on a fourth when something hit me on the back and I went up by the wall.

The general's detailed report further showed that severe fighting occurred near a dugout in which Americans were captured.

The trench was 25 ft. deep and the men had taken refuge there from the furious shelling. The Americans had apparently begun pouring from the dugout as the Germans came over the top. The few who reached the surface immediately attacked the Germans who outnumbered them.

The trench itself was the entrance to the German line. The Americans were shot and killed. The trench was filled with blood and torn bits of uniforms, both American and German, showing that the hand to hand fighting of the trench was a severe character had taken place there.

The general said he was well satisfied with the conduct of the men and pointed out that they had been in the trench only the night before and were tired. Added to this they had been in a trench in the European war only three hours and the shell fire had severed the American telephone wires, making communication with the rear difficult.

The extent to which the Germans had planned the raid, was shown by the fact that they had brought up field telephone switchboards behind the American barbed wire entanglements, connected with three lines for signalling the advance of the barrage during the progress of the raid.

The American sector was normal on Sunday.

An American major general on Sunday afternoon personally presented the citation which was awarded by a French corps commander to an American lieutenant from Vermont who was the first American officer wounded.

The engraved document recites that the American "was wounded in the head on October 29 by shell fire while working in a trench under enemy observation, and was the first American officer to shed blood on the soil of France, for right, justice, and liberty."

General Pershing was much pleased with what he saw on his tour and said in this respect:

"Our troops in army organization are already showing excellent results. In a war of all our strength against an enemy who uses all of his resources to kill and destroy, we need the service of every man, every woman, every child, every dog, every cat, every insect. Troops and supplies arrive in increasing numbers in keeping with the plans worked out by experts of the war department in conjunction with the army in France."

The general said a few words of praise for the young Plattsburgers and student officers from Fort Sheridan who had been arriving here for their final instructions.

Their character, intelligence and eagerness prove how thorough were the methods at the officers' general camps at Fort Sheridan.

"French officers are enthusiastic about them. We have every right to be proud of them."

SUFFRAGE WORKERS CONVENE WEDNESDAY

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 13.—"Win the War and Democracy" is the slogan for the annual convention of the Wisconsin Woman Suffrage association which opens in Milwaukee on Wednesday.

The victory of woman suffrage in New York is a victory for woman suffrage all over the United States," said Mrs. Theodore M. Youmans, chairman of the state association.

"Even before the election," said Mrs. Youmans, "it was believed there was a good chance for the passage of the federal amendment."

The addition of the great Empire state to the suffrage forces, practically assures that the congress will act promptly.

New York has 43 members of congress, only a small minority of whom voted for the woman suffrage amendment in 1912.

The enormous influence of that state is universally recognized.

Suffragettes expect President Wilson will favor the amendment in his annual message.

GERMAN DOMINATION IN ALSACE-LORRAINE

(BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.)
With the French armies, Nov. 13.—Some of the blighting effect which German domination has had on the inhabitants of Alsace and Lorraine, is apparent in the fact that during the past forty years that the two provinces have been annexed to Germany, not a single inhabitant has ever attained a medium high rank in the German army.

Before the German annexation, Alsace and Lorraine produced, in proportion to their territorial size and population, more great generals and geniuses than any other country in Europe.

During the wars of the French republic and empire, when the whole atmosphere of Europe was military, Alsace and Lorraine contributed no less than 62 generals to the French armies.

Strasbourg alone gave 14. So many of these were veritable military geniuses that the names of 23 of them are carved on the walls of the greatest general's hall in France.

On the Arch are to be found the names of: Schorler, Wehrle, Beummann, Wolf, Castex, Kellermann, Stolz, Kleber, Schauenbourg, Becker, Stengel, Amer, Kellermann, Dr. Sebevre, Hairy, Boyer, Dornier, Schramm, Schneider, Berckheim, Choudat, Schaal, Bourcier, Rapp, Wakher, Schramm, Jr., Cosborn and Dahlmann.

All were natives of Alsace and Lorraine as well as the 34 other generals whose names do not appear on the arch.

They came from every class of people in the two provinces. Generals like Schauenbourg and Berckheim were of the nobility. Kellermann and Kleber came from the bourgeoisie while many others rose from the soil and the humblest ranks of the army.

CONSERVATION SAVES THE U. S. MUCH MONEY

(BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.)
Washington, Nov. 13.—Waste material, being conserved by the war department, and money is being made out of it.

At every national army and national army camp, special officers have been detailed to have an eye on the penny to be saved through careful conservation of waste materials. Refuse from the mess halls are being placed in separate receptacles, fertilizer from the stables is to be sold to farmers living in the territory of the camps to save freight rates, and garbage, likewise, is to be disposed of to the highest bidder among stock men raising hogs.

Lieut. Col. J. Austin Ellison has been placed in charge of the division of conservation. He has the distinction of having called the attention of the war department to the vast saving that would result if care were exercised in disposal of refuse. The department has saved upwards of $2,000,000 on waste materials.

Col. Ellison has injected into camp life a certain class distinction in the disposal of garbage. It is a regular ceremonial. Waste material is divided into classes, and a special receptacle is provided for each class. There is a can for paper, one for tin, one for other for rags, one for paper, one for fats and tallow, one for bottles, one for tin cans, another for sweepings and pieces of tobacco, and still another for garbage.

Practically all of the refuse is sold. Cans, bottles, bones, fats, paper and rags have a ready market, and the garbage proper is carted to the city dump where it is burned in order to adhere to the strict sanitary regulations of the camps.

GUNS BOOM AS ALLIES CHECK FOE

FIGHTING IN ITALY IS REPORTED TO BE MOST INTENSE.

BATTLE LINE FORMED

Both Sides Are Prepared For Gigantic Struggle Which May Have Begun.

The Italian army is in position along the Piave front to the Adriatic, and from the Piave west to Sesto-Comuni. The invaders have failed in a strong attack northeast of Asiago and along the Piave there has been only artillery duels.

Report Captured.
North of Feltre the Austro-Germans have captured 14,000 Italians who apparently were cut off in their attempt to reach the new defense line. The Italians, aided by French and British, are prepared to give battle to the invader.

Urges Combine.
The Italian review has caused Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain and Poincare of France, both former ministers of war, to declare for solidarity of the allied command and effort. The reverses of the last three years have made it necessary that leadership be unified and allies united. Victory will come from unity of action, no matter what may happen to Russia or in Russia, the British leader declared.

Italians Ready.
Italian headquarters in Northern Italy, Nov. 13.—A heavy and continuing bombardment is proceeding along the lower Piave river, marking the opening stages of extensive operations on this new line. Whether a general engagement is imminent depends largely upon the success of the Italians are now entrenched behind the river and fighting defensive tactics, with the established forces, checking the further extension of the Austro-German offensive.

Detached Fighting.
The engagement thus far consisted of episodes at detached points. Although the fighting extends almost uninterruptedly for forty miles along the lower Piave. The crash of some heavy guns is now heard, showing the Austrians and Germans have been able to bring up a few of these monsters. No longer is a secret made of the fact that the Piave is the line of defense to which the supreme command has been holding its energy for the last ten days. The upper end of the line joining the Trentino front has virtually been made into one unified front sweeping in a huge arc from Lake Garda to the mouth of the Piave near Venice.

Protect Venice.
Precautionary measures to protect Venice continue lest the enemy whose which range runs are not far off, should attempt to bombard the famous art center. The palace of the Doges has been covered with sand bags and the delicate arches of the facade are being shored up with heavy timbers. The campanile has sand bags for forty feet around the base. The grand canal is filled with gondolas being used for transportation purposes.

The regulations also require bakers to serve products of their own making must take out license if they exceed the ten-barrel limit, and penalty for doing business without license is for one or two years imprisonment, or both.

Bakery licenses must keep products moving to the consumer in as direct a line as practicable and without unreasonable delay.

AGRICULTURAL and GARDEN DEPT

ALLEN B. WEST, Director

(By Allen B. West.)

Question: What shall I do with the fallen leaves. Are they of any use as fertilizer?

Answer: There are always many ways in which leaves may be used, depending upon circumstances. If you have a large quantity of them, you can probably put them to better use than to take them down dry and store them for use as mulching material for your hedges. They should be scattered to the ground in the runways or scratched shed four to six inches deep and the grain thrown into them for the hens to scratch out. In this way the hens get exercise and keep warm, both of which are very important for the layers. When the leaves become much broken and soiled they should be removed and put upon the garden or about shrubbery. Leaves alone are of high value as fertilizer, but they are excellent for adding vegetable matter to the soil and making it more porous. Leaves are also useful in making compost. To do this pile the leaves and put some branches over them to keep them from blowing away and leave them to decay. When well rotted mix them with garden manure and you have a fertilizer for potted plants. Leaves may also be used for mulching for plants that need light winter protection. If you have no use for leaves yourself don't forget to give them to a neighbor who has a garden or hens and let him use them. To burn them is wasteful.

Beware of Waste. With the price of all food stuffs going up, the wise farmer will take care to see that he uses every bit that he has to best advantage and that he wastes nothing. In the past I have seen straw stacks in Rock county, Wis., simply rotting away, standing from year to year. We have seen corn stalks left all winter in the field and plowed under in the spring. Neither of these things should happen this year in Rock county or elsewhere. Straw properly saved for use as a feeding value equal to half as much as timothy hay.

It is especially valuable for breeding stock. Three years' study of conditions in the corn belt has proven that the breeding herds maintained most largely on roughages such as oat or wheat straw stover and so on (with a very small quantity of concentrated feed, such as cotton seed meal, corn, etc.), are the herds from which the largest profits are returned.

One farmer who had put his barley straw under cover found on using it for bedding for the cows that the cows were eager to eat it and about half their bedding. They had never done this when the straw had been stacked up out of doors where it became discolored and often moldy. The straw allowed them for bedding came through the winter in excellent condition, which their owner believed was due to the straw they ate. Soil enrichment is much enhanced if used for bedding or fed to stock, for except as a source of humus it is of little value alone as a fertilizer.

Of course, a recent bulletin of the U. S. department of agriculture says: "In preparing stover for feeding purposes, cutting and shocking under general laboring and shredding involves less labor than shredding and the waste is about offset by the labor factor. Chopping or shredding increases the palatability and reduces the storage space for the stover, but the labor involved greatly increases the cost of preparation. If cheap power and labor are available, shredding cutting is to be recommended. Dry corn stover may be shredded in a corn shredder, or if sufficient water is added, 'the waste is greatly decreased in this manner, and the resulting feed somewhat resembles green silage and some farmers' successfully use some farmers'."

Inoculation Pays. Loye Boles had an interesting experience with garden peas this summer. He procured a card which he sent into the government at Washington asking for inoculating material for garden peas. This was sent him and he used it according to directions. At first he was disappointed with the results, but the peas did not grow as large as those he did not inoculate. They were a deeper green, however, and when they came to bearing, the inoculated plants not only bore more peas but peas of better quality. An examination of the roots showed nodules on both the peas that had been treated and the others as well, but more and larger ones on those which had been inoculated. He decided that it pays to inoculate.

OLD PRESCRIPTION

FOR WEAK KIDNEYS

Have you ever stopped to reason that so many products that are advertised, all at once, drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the advertiser did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy has been benefited by those who have used it.

A prominent druggist says: "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results. No other of my customers testify. No other remedy that I know of has so good a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact that so many people claim, it cures almost every ailment in overacting kidney, liver and bladder ailments, urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcel Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghams, N. Y., and enclose ten cents. Also mention the Janesville Daily Gazette, large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.

IMPROVED ROADS FOR POST ROUTES

Highways as Trunk Lines For Transportation of Mails.

RURAL DELIVERY SERVICE

To Thousands of Towns Which Have Only Local Train Service the Quick and Regular Delivery of Mails by Motor Truck Will Prove a Real Boon.

That the postoffice department recognizes the possibilities of improved highways as trunk lines for the transportation of mails between distant points is indicated by the fact that it is installing motor trucks and operating parcel post and mail service over distances which formerly were considered practicable only for railroads.

With over $50,000,000 annually expended for rural mail delivery, with tens of millions of parcel post packages to be delivered quickly and safely within a limited period of time and with the manifest handicap on the part of the railroads incident to hauling parcels to the railroad stations, loading them on the cars and repeating these operations at the termini, it must be evident that the motor truck and the improved highway are destined to assume an importance in mail transportation comparable with that of the railway mail service.

To the thousands of small cities and towns which have only local train service the quick and regular delivery of mails from a distributing point by motor truck will prove a real boon, while at the same time, in all probability, effecting a genuine economy to the postoffice department in the operation of its mail service. Parcel post for the transportation of perishable products and for bringing the producer and the consumer in close touch can be tremendously developed by this trunk line service, thus promoting the welfare of the producer by developing a market for him, lowering the cost to the consumer by the practical elimination of the middleman and increasing the food supply by making accessible large producing areas between urban communities.

In the rural delivery service it would seem that economy of operation could be secured by combining many of the circuitous routes through the establishment of through trunk lines traversed by motor trucks and attaching to the direct service a few motorcycles or bicyclists to reach the outlying sections contiguous to the trunk line.

The importance of the highways throughout the United States to the safety, the economy, the welfare and the happiness of the people cannot be overestimated.

Military requirements and possibilities through the use of motor vehicles are paramount in this age as no other age. The operation of the parcel post and mail delivery calls for the use of over 1,100,000 miles of public highway.

The United States government and the state governments are spending such large sums of money that, taken in connection with local expenditures, an aggregate outlay of over $300,000,000 is now made annually for highway construction and maintenance. Over 3,500,000 automobiles make use of these highways for profit and pleasure.

The vast quantities of food produced on the farm and necessary to the existence of our city population and for export to our allies must move over the country highways. Great zones of suburban population are now extending out from cities by reason of highway development. The millions of dollars formerly spent by tourists in European countries are now being spent by Americans in "seeing America."

That the highway is an even more important factor in transportation than the railway is being shown day by day with increasing emphasis. Recently a traffic census of a highway leading out from Akron, O., showed that it carried considerably more tonnage than any of the main lines of railway leading out from the same point.

Canada-Texas Highway Surveyed. A new international highway is the King of Trails highway. It extends from Winnipeg, Canada, to San Antonio and Galveston, Tex. The route was recently mapped and surveyed.

ITALIAN WOMAN IS GUILTY OF CHARGE

MRS. RAFFAELLA BOSCO ENTERS PLEA OF GUILTY TO MURDER GRIMM IN THE CIRCUIT COURT AND IS FINED.

STATE LACKS EVIDENCE

Lack of Evidence Causes the Dismissal of the Case Against Philomena Palmero as an Accessory to the Fact.

In the case of State of Wisconsin versus Raffaella Bosco and Philomena Palmero which was called before Judge Grimm yesterday afternoon, the State dismissed its charges against Mrs. Bosco, the widow of the murdered man, and accepted a plea of guilty as accessory after the fact, on the part of Mrs. Palmero. It was remembered that these two women were connected with the murder through the confession of Jim Cornevale, the murderer, who is now serving a life sentence at Marquette. It was also remembered that these two women counseled with him and urged him to commit the offense. The district attorney, O. A. Oestreich, in his associate, informed the court that there was no evidence which in their judgment would support the claim of Cornevale, and that in fact there was no credible evidence to support the charge that the defendant before it was committed. They stated, however, that there was some evidence which indicated that the elder woman, Mrs. Bosco, knew about the murder, and that time after it occurred, and withheld this information from the police, which would make her an accessory after the fact.

Nolan & Dougherty, the defendants' attorneys, entered a plea of guilty to this latter charge, on behalf of Mrs. Bosco. They contended that if Mrs. Bosco did without any intention to murder, it was probably due to fear for her own safety, and not with any intent or purpose to thwart the police in their search for the murderer.

Both the district attorney and his associate, Mr. Oestreich, were very free in stating to the court that they had no evidence which in their judgment would support a conviction of Mrs. Palmero, the widow of the deceased, of any crime whatsoever, and requested the court to permit them to dismiss all charges against her. The crime of accessory after the fact is not a state's prison offense, but it is punishable by a fine not to exceed $200, or a jail sentence not to exceed one year. It was pointed out that the defendant could be promptly released under the commitment law, the attorneys for the state insisted that a fine be imposed rather than a jail sentence. Judge Grimm, after listening to the recommendations of the attorneys for the state, and hearing the statements of the attorneys for the accused, convicted the defendant, Mrs. Bosco, of being an accessory after the fact and imposed upon her a fine of $100, which was paid.

This closes the much discussed Italian feud for which Jim the murderer is serving a life sentence. It was suggested that Cornevale killed Palmero through love of his wife, Mrs. Palmero, and then sought to escape the penalty by implicating her. The crime was committed at the time the Italian colony was under surveillance and, of course, rumor and charges of all kinds were flying about. It would seem, however, after the most searching examination, that Cornevale acted from motives of his own and not as the tool of the two women.

FOR ARMY "Y" FUND

Noted Chicago Divine Accepts Invitation to Address Mass Meeting in Janesville.

On Friday evening, probably at the Myers theatre, Bishop Samuel FalloWS, of Chicago, one of the noted Episcopal bishops of this country, will speak at a mass meeting in the interests of the campaign for the Army Y. M. C. A. fund. Bishop FalloWS is the civil war days, having commanded the Forty-Ninth Wisconsin Volunteers during that trying period. He was promoted for bravery to a Brigadier Generalship. He is a wonderful speaker and despite his years, has kept thoroughly abreast of the times and knows the value and the need of Y. M. C. A. work in army cantonments and camps and on the battle front. The Bishop telegraphed A. E. Matheson today he would be present.

MISS MATTIE CROWLEY IS CALLED BY DEATH

After An Illness of But One Day Miss Mattie Crowley Passes Away at Home of Her Parents.

Following an illness of only one day, Miss Mattie Crowley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Crowley, 1112 Ravine street, passed away at the home of her parents early Monday evening. Sunday, Miss Crowley was in poor health, but on Monday she became ill from heart trouble, resulting in her death early in the evening.

The deceased was forty years of age and well known in this city as a prominent church and civic worker. During the large part of her life she acted as a music instructor, giving her talents to many young people who took lessons from her. Her loss will be greatly felt by her numerous boy and girl students, who knew her and loved her so well. Always a patient and hard worker, she had won the place in the hearts of all who knew her and her death will leave a place which will be hard to fill.

She is survived by two brothers and father and mother. The sisters are: Irene, Lillian and Mrs. Charles Cox of this city, and Mrs. William Spohn of Madison. The brothers are: John, of Chicago, and A. E. Crowley of Fond du Lac.

The funeral will be held on Thursday morning at nine o'clock from St. Patrick's church. Interment will be in Mount Olivet cemetery.

Mrs. Mary Mac Dougall.

The mortal remains of Mrs. Mary Mac Dougall, who died in Chicago last Saturday, were laid to rest this morning in the Mt. Olivet cemetery. Father William Mahoney conducted the service in the St. Patrick's church at eight o'clock. The funeral was held from the home of her brother, Thomas J. Riley, of 436 South Franklin street. The pallbearers were: James Keenan, John Keenan, James Keenan, P. J. Riley, Thomas McKeligue and William A. Murray.

COUNTY BOARD MEETS AT THE COURT HOUSE

First Session of the November Meetings of Supervisors Held at 2:30 This Afternoon.

Rock county supervisors met this afternoon at two-thirty for the regular November session of the county board. Among the more important things which the board will act upon at their meetings this month will be the appointment of a successor to Cash Hippie, present head of the county farm.

Mr. Whipple recently handed in his resignation, but if the board will consider making a few arrangements satisfactory to him, he may reconsider his action. Mr. Whipple has served the county very efficiently during his short term of office, and it is up to the board of supervisors as to whether they will accept his resignation. It is probable that several other names will be brought up as possible candidates for the job, and this part of the program may result in a stormy session.

Besides business of a routine nature which will come before the board, the matter of road work in the county for next year will be taken up. During the past year many miles of roads have been repaired and oiled, and the board plans to continue the work on a larger scale in 1918.

NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNERS.
The assessments for street oiling on various streets for the season of 1917 are now due and payable at the office of the City Treasurer. If not paid by November 15th, 1917, the amounts plus 6% interest will be entered on the tax rolls against the various described properties.

Dated Oct. 29, 1917.
GEORGE W. MUENCHOW,
City Treasurer.

LOSERS INTEREST IN CUSTARD PIE
Mabel's command is definitely lost to the slapstick forces. She has turned her back on the throbbing heart of the comedy on the "Custard Pie" pole, comedienne, and says she prefers to be known for what she may accomplish in the future rather than for her work in the past. Mabel would not be the first "Custard Pie" humor his own record up with "Fair and Warmer," the bubbling hilarity of which Selwyn & Company will present at the Lyceum theater on Sunday. It is Mr. Hopwood's admirer, dating from "Seven Days" and "Nobody's Widow," two great successes of former seasons, found in his latest work the same sparkle and cleverness of characterization which had graced the others, with an added goodness of situations. The scene built around the inept making of a cocktail puts his audiences practically into hysterics.

The long New York run of the piece with its thousand out of town victories and its subsequent record unparalleled success wherever it has been seen, spread the fame of "Fair and Warmer" all over the country and created a vigorous demand for it here with Selwyn & Company. It is therefore with a very happy and Basic American fishermen along the coasts where the U-boats operate have made some remarkable catches during the past few months. One fisherman who found a store of 15,000 diamonds from a Lusitania in his net one day, and whose honesty in returning them to their rightful owners was rewarded with a check for $100,000. Another. Then there is another fisherman who came home from a fishing expedition with a fine new American automobile. Washed to the deck by a U-boat, he rescued hundreds of fishermen who have made modest fortunes of salvage of one kind or another. Wheat flour and coal salvage are also profitable businesses in the coast home with a brand new automobile, a household favorite in the Irish port. Accompanied by his son he was making a haul of fish when he was aroused by the report of an explosion. On the horizon a cargo steamer from America was settling by the stern. The firsterman headed for it and soon met the captain and the crew in two open boats. "She's loaded with American automobiles, you might get one before she goes under," said the skipper jokingly as he and his shipmates passed by the shore.

The torpedeed ship was still well above water when the fisherman came alongside. He at once sent his son on board to look around. The latter found the hold full of automobile tires. "Run one out through this gunwale," directed the father. "With the aid of some tackle the machine was dropped into the fishing net." A few minutes later the fish trawler steamed away, the ship disappeared. The fisherman with an automobile is now the envy of the village.

Many torpedoed vessels manage to reach shore, where they are usually pounded to pieces by the enemy's B batteries. The rest is lost forever people come from miles around to salvage Anything that will float is used and everyone helps himself. Cargo and children and children's things and anything else of value. Flour and canned meats, fruits and vegetables form a larger portion of the booty than gold. One of the islanders had the good fortune to have a couple of food ships bring up on its very doorstep. Most of the ships of course go down. But this does not seem to matter the islanders have been known to transfer several hundred sacks of the best American flour from a vessel while it is sinking many times over land. The children on tears a big trench hole in the victim much of the cargo will become loosened and wash ashore, where it is quickly sold for a few cents a pound.

A Romance of Adventure

"What...?" "You written?" asked a quiet voice at his ear; and he turned to look straight in the eyes of Rewa Gunga, who had leaped forward to read over his shoulder. Just for one second he hovered, on the brink of quick defeat. Having escaped the Scylla of the dancing women, Charybdis waited for him in the shape of eyes that were pools of hot mystery. It was the sound of his own voice that brought him back to the world again and saved his will for him unbound.

"Read it, won't you?" he laughed. "If you know, take this pen and mark the names of whichever of those men are still in Delhi."

Rewa Gunga took pen and paper and set a mark against some thirty of the names, for King had a manner that disarmed refusal.

King began to watch the dance again, for it did not feel safe to look too long into the Rangar's eyes. It was not wise just then to look too long at anything or to think too long on any one subject.

"Ismail is slow about returning," said the Rangar.

"I wrote at the foot of the tar," said King, "that they are to detain him there until the answer comes."

The Rangar's eyes blazed for a second and then grew cold again, as King did not fail to observe. All this while the women danced on, in time to waiting flute music, until, it seemed from nowhere, a lovelier woman than any of them appeared in their midst, sitting cross-legged with a flat basket at her knees. She sat with arms raised and swayed from the waist as if in a delirium. Her arms moved in narrowing circles, higher and higher above the basket lid, and then began to rise. It was minutes before the bodies of two great king cobras could be made out, moving against the woman's spangled dress with hoods raised, hissing the cobra's hate-song that is prelude to the poison-death.

They struck at the woman, one after the other, and she leaped out of their range, swift and as supple as a snake. Instantly then she joined in the dance, with the snakes striking right and left at her. Left and right she swayed to avoid them, far more gracefully than a matador avoids the bull and courting a deadlier peril than he—posonous, two to his one. As she danced she whirled both arms above her head and cried as the werewolves are said to do on stormy nights.

"Do you do this often?" wondered King, in a calm aside to Rewa Gunga, turning half toward him and taking his eyes off the dance without any very great effort.

Rewa Gunga clapped his hands and the dance ceased. The blind was drawn upward and in a moment all was normal again with the punkah swinging slowly overhead, except that the seductive smell remained, that was like the early-morning breath of all the different flowers of India.

"If she were here," said the Rangar, a little grimly—with a trace of disappointment in his tone—"you would not snatch your eyes away like that! Perhaps you shall see her dance some day! Ah—here is Ismail," he added in an altered tone of voice. He seemed relieved at sight of the Afridi.

Bursting through the glass-bead curtains at the door, the great savage strode down the room, holding out a telegram. With a murmur of conventional apology King tore the envelope and in a second his eyes were ablaze with something more than wonder. A mystery, added to a mystery, stirred all the zeal in him. But in a second he had sweated his excitement down.

"Read that, will you?" he said, passing it to Rewa Gunga. It was not in cypher, but in plain every-day English.

She has not gone North. She is still in Delhi. Suit your own movements to your plans.

"Can you explain?" asked King in a level voice. He was watching the Rangar narrowly, yet he could not detect the slightest symptom of emotion.

"Explain?" said the Rangar. "Who can explain foolishness? It means that another fat general has made another fat mistake!"

"Ah!" said King. "You are positive she has started for the North?"

"Sahib, when she speaks it is best to believe!" She told me she will go! Therefore I am ready to lead King sahib up the Khyber to her!"

"There's a train leaves for the North tonight," said King.

The Rangar nodded.

"You'll want a pass up the line. How many servants? Three—four—how many?"

"One," said the Rangar, and King was instantly suspicious of the modesty of that allowance; however he wrote out a pass gave it to him.

"Be there on time and see about your own reservation," he said. "I'll attend to Ismail's pass myself."

He folded the list of names that the Rangar had marked and wrote something on the back. Then he begged an envelope, and Rewa Gunga had one brought to him. He sealed the list in the envelope, addressed it and beckoned Ismail again.

"Take this to Saunders sahib!" he ordered. "Go first to the telegraph office, where you were before, the babu there will tell you where Saunders sahib may be found. Deliver the letter to him. Then come and find me at the Star of India hotel and help me to bathe and change my clothes."

"To hear is to obey!" boomed Ismail, bowing; but his last glance was for Rewa Gunga, and he did not turn to go until he had met the Rangar's eyes.

When Ismail had gone striding down the room King looked into the Rangar's eyes with that engaging frankness of his that disarms so many people.

"Then you'll be on the train tonight?" he asked.

"To hear is to obey! With pleasure, sahib!"

"Then good-by until this evening." King bowed very civilly and walked out, rather unsteadily because his head ached. Probably nobody else, except the Rangar, could have guessed what an ordeal he had passed through or how near he had been to losing self-command.

In the street he found a gharry after a while and drove to his hotel. And before Ismail came he took a stroll through a bazaar, where he made a few strange purchases. In the hotel lobby he invested in a leather bag with a good lock, in which to put them. Later on Ismail came and proved himself an efficient body-servant.

That evening Ismail carried the leather bag and found his place on the train, and that was not so difficult, because the trains running North were nearly empty, although the platforms were all crowded. As he stood at the carriage door with Ismail near him, a man named Saunders slipped through the crowd and sought him out.

"Arrested 'em all!" he grinned.

King did not answer. He was watching Rewa Gunga, followed by a servant, hurrying to a reserved compartment at the front end of the train. The Rangar waved to him and he waved back.

The engine gave a preliminary shriek and the giant Ismail nudged King's elbow in impatient warning. There was no more sign of Rewa Gunga, who had evidently settled down in his compartment for the night.

"Get my bag out again!" King ordered, and Ismail stared.

"Get out my bag, I said!"

"To hear is to obey!" Ismail grumbled, reaching with his long arm through the window.

The engine shrieked again, somebody whistled, and the train began to move.

"You've missed it!" said Saunders, amused at Ismail's frantic disappointment.

CHAPTER V.

The rear lights of the train he had not taken away out of Delhi station and King grinned as he wiped the sweat from his face with a dripping handkerchief. Behind him towered the hook-nosed Ismail, resentful of the unexpected, in front of him Saunders eyed the proffered black cheroots suspiciously, accepted one with an air of curiosity, and passed the case back. Around them the clatter of the station crowd began to die, and Parsimony in a shabby uniform went round to lower lights.

"Are you sure?"

King's merry eyes looked into Saunders' as if there were no world yet really and they two were puppets in a comedy.

"Are you absolutely certain Yasmin is in Delhi?"

"No," said Saunders. "What I swear to is that she has not left by train. She's the most elusive individual in Asia! One person in the world knows where she is, unless she has an accomplice. My information's negative. I know she has not gone by—"

King struck a match and held it out so the sentence was unfinished; the first few puffs of the astonishing cigar wiped out all memory of the missing word. And then King changed the subject.

"Those men I asked you to arrest?"

"Nabbed"—puff—"every one of 'em!"—puff—"all under"—puff—"lock and key,—best smoke, I ever tasted."

"Well—I'll go along with you if you like and look them over."

Both tone and manner gave Saunders credit for the suggestion, and Saunders seemed to like it. There is nothing like following up, in football, war or courtship.

"I see you're a judge of a cigar," said King, and Saunders purred, all men being fools to some extent, and the only trouble being to demonstrate the fact.

They had started for the station entrance when a nasal voice began intoning, "Cap-teen King sahib—Cap-teen King sahib!" and a telegraph messenger passed them with his book under his arm. King whistled him. A moment later he was tearing open an official urgent telegram and writing a string of figures in pencil across the top. Then he de-coded swiftly:

Advices are Yasmin was in Delhi as recently as six this evening. Fail to understand your inability to get in touch. Have you tried at her house? Matters in Khyber district much less satisfactory. Word from O-C Khyber rifles to effect that Ismail is collecting. Better sweep up in Delhi and proceed northward as quickly as compatible with caution. L. M. L.

"Good news?" asked Saunders, blowing smoke through his nose.

"Excellent. Where's my man? Here you—Ismail!"

The giant came and towered above him.

"You swore she went North!"

"Ha, sahib! To Peshawar she went!"

"I have a telegram here that says she is in Delhi!"

He patted his coat, where the inner pocket bulged.

"Nay, then the tar lies, for I saw her go with these two eyes of mine!"

"It is not wise to lie to me, my friend," King assured him, so pleasantly that none could doubt he was telling truth.

"If I lie may I eat dirt!" Ismail answered.

"I Should Worry Now About Corns"

They Peel off With "Gets-It."

Two corns are no worse than one, and one is nothing at all—when you use "Gets-It," the one real corn-shrinker, corn-softener, peeling-right-off corn-remover. That's because "Gets-It" is safe.

You'll not have to take off your shoes or pumps under the table at the cafe to ease your aching soles. See that you get "Gets-It." Don't be insulted by imitations. 25c is all you need to pay at any drug store for "Gets-It," or it will be sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Sold in Janesville and recommended as the world's best corn remedy by Smith Drug Co., McCue & Buss, J. P. Baker, W. T. Sherer.

answered him.

Inches lent the Afridi dignity, but dignity has often been used as a stalking horse for untruth. King nodded, and it was not possible to judge by his expression whether he believed or not.

"Let's make a move," he said, turning to Saunders. "She seems at any rate to wish it believed she has gone North. I'll take the early morning train. Where are the prisoners?"

"In the old Mir Khan palace. Shall we take this gharry?"

With Ismail up beside the driver nursing King's bag and looking like a great grim vulture about to eat the horse, they drove back through swarming streets in the direction of the river. King seemed to have lost all interest in crowds. He sat staring ahead in silence, although Saunders made more than one effort to engage him in conversation.

"No!" he said at last suddenly—so that Saunders jumped.

"No what?"

"No need to stay here. I've got what I came for!"

Dinner Stories

The friend had dropped in to see d'Auber, the great animal painter, put the finishing touches on his latest painting. He was mystified, however when d'Auber took some raw meat and rubbed it vigorously over the painted rabbit in the foreground.

"Why on earth do you do that?" he asked.

"Well, you see," explained d'Auber, "Mrs. Millions is coming to see this picture today. When she sees her pet rabbit, she'll buy it on the spot."

The teacher was trying to impress upon her class the necessity of regularity in the study of human heart, and to drive her point home she produced her watch.

"Now, girls," she said, "you all see this watch—an assertion so obvious as to be true that there was no danger of contradiction. 'Now,' she continued, 'just suppose for a moment that it did not keep correct time, that I found it was telling me a very wrong way but the right way, what should I do with it?'"

There was the usual pause which pupils indulge in because it flatters the teacher by making her suppose her problem is a very deep one, and that her wisdom is, therefore, profound. Then a bright little girl held up her hand.

"Please, miss!" she said, "you would sell it to a friend!"

"You'll have to pay fare for that child, madam," said the conductor.

"But he's only a year old."

"We collect for all children over 7."

"Well, why don't you have your silly old rules put up where people can see them?"

SUBSTITUTE FOR TRAFFIC COP IS NEW INVENTION

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Denver, Col., Nov. 13.—And now the well known traffic cop is going to be looking for a new job.

A Denver inventor has perfected what is said to be the first practical substitute for the son of Erin who works the "Stop-Go" sign at street intersections. The machine, which being given a thorough try-out by the Denver traffic department, is said to perform all the functions ordinarily left to the cop, with none of his mistakes.

Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I felt a great change for the better and am now well and strong as I have no trouble in doing my work. I hope every user of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will get as great relief as I did from its use."—Mrs. S. D. McANZIE, 122 Dewey Ave., Spartanburg, S. C.

Chicago, Ill.—"For about two years I suffered from a female trouble so I was unable to walk or do any of my own work. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspapers and determined to try it. It brought almost immediate relief. My weakness has entirely disappeared and I never had better health. I weigh 105 pounds and am as strong as a man. I think money is well spent which purchases Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Jos. O'BRYEN, 1755 Newport Ave., Chicago, Ill.

CURING OF TOBACCO DELAYED BY WEATHER

The lack of steady warm and dry weather during October has seriously delayed the curing of all the tobacco raised in Wisconsin.

Many requests for advice as to what can be done to aid curing have come to the experiment station. The situation is especially serious in view of the fact that the growers are not prepared either with materials or sheds most suitable for artificially aiding the curing process.

In some southern and eastern tobacco growing sections of the United States the use of artificial heat for curing is quite general, irrespective of weather conditions. These systems range from completely drying out the tobacco in a week, as in the case of cured tobacco, to a slow curing with charcoal fires as used in some of the shade grown districts of the Connecticut valley.

The latter process could be safely and easily applied to Wisconsin tobacco providing the charcoal and fair "tight" sheds were at hand. The use of charcoal may, however, be a fairly expensive process, and in addition charcoal is usually not readily obtained in any quantity from local dealers.

Some growers are resorting to taking the tobacco down from the poles and piling it up in the shed to start spontaneous heating. The value of this process, however, is still questionable.

Because of the importance of getting the tobacco cured, not only to insure color, but also to prevent the development of molds and "fat stems" as much as possible, James Johnson, of the experiment station is advising the growers who still have green or even "shed frozen" tobacco to resort to some means of drying the leaf artificially.

If charcoal is not obtainable, use some other burnable material, preferably dry kudding may be used in small fires about eight or ten feet apart in a single row through the sheds. These fires should be kept up for two or more days without stopping, gradually raising the temperature, if possible, to as high as 100 degrees. It is therefore preferable to do this on relatively warm, windless days.

The fires should receive almost hourly attention. The idea that a smudge of smoke should be produced in the shed is without foundation, and may even injure what would be otherwise good tobacco by affecting its aroma.

STATE CONVENTION IN SESSION TODAY

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Pond du Lac, Wis., Nov. 13.—More than 1,000 delegates, representing a Sunday school membership in the state of more than 150,000 persons, of fifteen denominations, are expected to attend sessions of the Wisconsin Sunday School conference which opened here today.

From all appearances today the convention will be the largest in the history of the state body—which is fifty-seven years old. Participation in the convention does not involve any doctrinal agreement. The purpose of the organization is to promote Sunday school efficiency and in this year's convention mobilize the Christian young people's forces for war work of available character.

Speakers of national prominence will appear on the program. The following are some subjects and men who will speak: "Organization and Administration," W. C. Pearce, Chicago, field secretary of the International Sunday School association; "Education and Training," Prof. M. A. Linton, Day, O., professor of religious education, Honebrake seminary; "Secondary," P. Edward Rafferty, Philadelphia, Pa., editor-in-chief of Sunday school publications for the American Baptist publication society; "Sunday School Administration," B. W. Halpenny of Toronto, now general secretary of the Ontario Sunday School association and for years one of the most successful state provincial secretaries; Rev. D. Jenkins Williams of Wausau will have charge of the music. There will be four different group meetings each morning and afternoon of the three days' convention. Special trains today bore hundreds of delegates to Pond du Lac for the opening session this afternoon.

ONE FIRM CONTROLS COLOMBIAN PLATINUM

(BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.)

Washington, Nov. 13.—An American firm—Adolf Levisohn & Son, of 61 Broadway, New York, has the valuable concession—an absolute monopoly—for mining Colombian platinum.

Platinum—a war metal more costly than gold, is today selling for $110 an ounce, the Council of National Defense says, although the government is using all its needs at $85 an ounce. Before the war platinum was worth only $65 an ounce. Stopping the Russian supply to America—before America entered the war, and the urgent demand for platinum for making spark plugs, boosted the price.

Today, prospectors are scouring the far corners of the world for platinum deposits. The rich placer platinum deposits in the San Juan and Condoto rivers in Colombia are being drawn on heavily to fill the need.

While there is no national shortage in America for war platinum, the Council of National Defense has cautioned against lavish use of the precious metal for making watch or cigarette cases.

The use in smaller and more intricate "rough" jewelry is permitted, however.

Those attending the banquet tonight will be representative business men and politicians from the sixth, eighth and ninth congressional districts. Congressmen J. H. Davidson, E. F. Browne and D. G. Classon, of those districts, are expected to be guests of honor.

THE THRILL OF GIVING

Have you experienced that feeling which comes to one after performing a kindly helpful act for another?

When Christmas comes, and you—full of the spirit of giving—look beyond your immediate surroundings, and put into the hands of a boy or girl or the mother, food and cheer, which would not be theirs, had you failed to think of others.

Do you remember how tears welled up in your own eyes, how you swallowed hard at the lump in your throat, because of the great gladness that shown out of the eyes of those friends.

It was worth a personal sacrifice even to carry away the consciousness of bringing happiness to others, and so today over this wonderful land of yours and mine are thousands upon thousands of unselfish, kindly persons—men, women, boys and girls giving to that great International, World-Wide Cause, the National War Work Council of the Y. M. C. A., in both time and money that your boy and mine may be "mothered" in the only home known to the Army Camp or the Naval Base.

Those who give—and more will give than to any call for help that ever presented itself—will have that same consciousness that comes to the "good fellow" at Christmastime.

There will be but few who will not give freely and liberally to this great call for help—there will be many personal sacrifices that your boy and mine may be protected morally and physically in the tremendous task he has undertaken that your home and my home may be safe for all time.

The time has arrived when citizenship will be measured in a large degree by the manner in which we support the great causes, and represented at this time in the National Y. M. C. A. Army work.

The person that evades the call—who neither gives of service or money or both, liberally, will be no longer welcomed as a true American, but will take the place of his own choosing and must bear the odium of criticism.

There will be but few of these, however, and when the last report is brought in from the army of workers, who will call upon you this week, it will be the greatest honor that can be conferred upon any community to have it said "they all contributed of their money and service."

THIS IS WHAT WE MUST ACCOMPLISH.

Raise $35,000,000--in the United States this week--

Raise $37,000--in Rock county this week--

Raise $15,000--in Janesville this week.

In order to do this, there must be a liberal giving of money on the part of every person—not just a little, but every penny you can spare.

It's your business and mine—it's for the saving of your boy and mine—

MORRIS MILLER

Fritz Schell, the actress is mistress of the intricacies of clay pigeon shooting. She learned the art in rather an unusual way. The caretaker of her country estate, which is near Waterbury, Conn., is a fair shot with a 22 caliber rifle at 100 yards. He rigged up a target last summer and practiced daily—even nightly.

The prima donna watched him, never thinking to try her hand herself, for she had never tried any sort of arm in her life. But one day late in August she picked up the rifle and to her astonishment in fifty shots hit a bullseye twenty times. There after she practiced until she could do even better. The Waterbury County club goes in extensively for clay pigeon shooting, holding a tournament weekly during the summer. The president invited Miss Schell to participate. By this time she had become proficient with a 12 gauge 12 guage gun. Her best score was 43 out of 50.

While on her way to rehearsal in New York recently, Miss Schell dropped into a shooting gallery and tried her hand with a revolver. She knocked down so many clay pipes,

THE WEEKLY MEETING OF THE TUESDAY LADIES' CLUB

IOWA'S VARSITY
LIGHT THIS YEAR

Captain Davis.

It looks like a sad season on the gridiron for Iowa this fall. The Hawkeye team was completely outclassed by Wisconsin in a short while ago and Wisconsin is not the strongest team in the western conference. Lack of heavy material is Iowa's chief trouble and while the other teams have suffered from a want of enough material Captain Davis says that Iowa has had the unkindest cut of all.

rabbits, etc., that the proprietor saw visions of business ruin and ordered her to stop.

Nick Altrock has the "big nose" among the ball players who visited the soldier boys at Camp Sheridan, Montgomery, Ala., not long ago. Altrock entertained the soldiers with his pitching, coaching, fielding at first base, catching supposedly high flies, tight rope walking, fishing and last but not least his own copyrighted knockout stunt. Nick does the hitting as well as the falling in his kayo act, bringing it to a climax with a flop in midair and sprawling full length on the ground. To say that Nick made a hit with his act is expressing it mildly. The soldiers at Camp Sheridan tried to recruit him as a regular member. This speaker, the Cleveland Indians' center fielder, acted as referee and counted Nick out.

If Ban Johnson joins the army, which hasn't been decided yet, some of the American league men may object to the appointment of Edward G. Barrow in Big Ben's place. Already these magnates, who still hope that Johnson will remain in this country, are talking of electing Frank J. Navin to the league's presidency. Navin is president and part owner of the Detroit Tigers. He is one of the oldest club owners in the circuit and is a close friend of Johnson. He is a smart baseball man and usually is consulted regarding questions of importance. Should Navin be chosen to fill Johnson's shoes he would sever his relations with the Detroit club, at least temporarily.

Miller Huggins' engagement by the Yankees in case of repatriation. Last spring the St. Louis Cardinals weaned Branch Rickey away from the Browns by doubling his salary. Rickey was the Browns' business manager and chief scout. He could not get along with Owner Hall, who told him he could better himself. But when Rickey signed with the Cardinals there was much ill feeling on the part of Ball and other American league men. By taking Huggins away from Rickey, therefore, the American league is getting square.

It's too bad. Notre Dame cannot go through its 1917 football season without meeting a defeat, as some fans led themselves to believe following the Catholics' inelegant stunt of downing the Army 7-2 not long ago. Notre Dame has already been defeated. Yep, Eddie Stewart's Nebraska varsity dumped the beans on Oct. 20, winning 7-0. This is the same Nebraska eleven which Hurry-Yost's Michigan varsity walloped 20-0.

Christy Mathewson as manager has found more time to play golf than he knew as a player. While he only gets out around once a week these days, he has steadied his game around 82 or 83. It is still a question as to who is the better golfer among diamond stars, Matty or Chief Bender. They are certainly the two leaders. Some day there may be a battle between the pair to help decide the issue.

MANY MEN OF DRAFT AGE IN THIS STATE TO CERTIFY STATUS

Madison, Wis., Nov. 13.—There are approximately 235,000 men of draft age in the state of Wisconsin who will receive a questionnaire from the local board in each district, asking them to certify their family and occupational status. To date, 237,000 men have registered in the state of Wisconsin. To fill up the draft quota, 12,879 men were required. All other persons of draft age, whether originally exempted by the exemption boards or not, will receive the questionnaire. In fact, every person of draft age not in military camp will receive these questionnaires to answer.

Apparently the numerical system of calling men in order of age has been modified by the federal government in order to conserve as much as possible present family relations and the industrial and agricultural situation. Heretofore, persons have been called in their relative numerical order regardless of the fact of whether they were married, engaged in a necessary occupation to the government or not. Information which has been received by E. A. Fitzpatrick, director of the new draft administration arrangement, all single men without dependents, all married men who are not living with and do not support their families will be placed in the first class, and will be called for military service before any other persons are called. This means that there will be a re-classification of all of the drafted men in the state on the basis of the information received in the questionnaire which will disclose the order in which the men will be called. Single men who might have been down in the list will probably be called up, under the modified ruling of the government, very likely be subject to immediate draft.

A single man, however, who is engaged in industry that is necessary to the maintenance of the military establishment or for the operation of the military forces of the United States will be classified as a first class man and will receive the protection which this classification would give him. In other words, a man who is classified on the basis of dependency in one class and in another class on the basis of his industrial or agricultural status will receive the benefit of the higher classification, so that his call will be delayed. Under the new regulations the farm labor of the state will be conserved to the extent that no farm laborer will be placed in the first class. By this arrangement, all persons who "hang around" the various towns, villages or rural districts and who are engaged in non-essential industries, will go before the farm laborers.

The last class to be called will be married men with families. There is also a provision in this classification which would exempt a man who is supporting his sister or relative's children, or who in other ways in the relationship of a parent to dependent children under twelve years of age. The machinery of the draft is exactly the same as it was at first, said Mr. Fitzpatrick today. Local boards will in the first instance classify men on the basis of their dependents. Any person dissatisfied with the classification of the local board may appeal to the district board for a re-classification. A classification is final. After a case has been disposed of on the basis of dependency, the questionnaire goes to the district board without any action on the part of the registrant, that is, he does not have to file a claim of discharge. The district board then classifies the questionnaire submitted to it on the basis of the agricultural and industrial status of the registrant. A registrant dissatisfied with a classification of the district board may appeal to the president of the district board. It is of course understood that there is no appeal to the president on dependency claims over which the local board has original jurisdiction. Single men of draft age who have not yet been called into the service may now enlist under the call of Adjutant General Orlando Holway for 1,500 volunteers to fill up the ranks of the Wisconsin troops at Waco, Texas. The new war strength, increasing the size of the regiments from 2,000 to 3,000, necessitates additional men to fill up Wisconsin regiments. Credit will be given on the second draft for enlistments in each district.

Nation's Drug Bill.

VERY GOOD EUROPEAN RECIPES WHICH ARE EGG AND BUTTERLESS

War cake. This possibility has probably been suggested to the American housewife, but the economical art has long been known in Europe.

Much has been heard of the famous Paris or Vienna culinary art, but it was all more or less mythical and receipts were not obtainable. The European baking and cooking has always been conducted on a most economical principle, not that they were "hooverizing," but butter and eggs, items which the American housewife considers necessary for good baking, are too expensive to use even for the holiday cakes. But the ingenuity of the Parisian or Viennese housewife was never taxed to such a limit but that a substitute could be found. The following three receipts for holiday cakes are eggless and butterless, and are three personal receipts of Mrs. Margaret Fank of Milwaukee, and reveal three of the innermost secrets of the European culinary art.

To use oleomargarine or lard in the place of butter when baking, mix a small portion of baking powder with it; this makes it lighter and is equal in all ways to butter.

Potato Tort.
1 cup oleomargarine mixed with ¼ teaspoon baking powder.
½ cup sugar.
4 teaspoons of any egg substitute. (Egg substitutes can be had at any grocery.)
¼ cup milk.
1 cup chopped walnuts.
½ bar grated sweet chocolate. Small size.

1 teaspoon of cinnamon.
1 cup grated boiled potatoes.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
¼ cup of flour.

Graham Cake.
½ cup oleomargarine mixed with ¼ teaspoon of baking powder.
1 cup sugar.
2 teaspoons of egg substitute.
1 cup milk.
1 cup graham crackers, rolled.
1 cup flour.

1 teaspoon vanilla.
2 teaspoons baking powder.
Bake in two layers.

Filling.
2 cups confectionery sugar.
1 tablespoon oleomargarine.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
Add milk enough to make moist, mix to a cream.

Holiday Fruit Cake.
1 pound chopped date or pork. Add one pint boiling water over this and let stand until other ingredients are ready.
Mix two cups of syrup and one cup sugar with one tablespoon of the following ground spices: Cloves, ginger, nutmeg, mace and cinnamon. Now mix thoroughly with the meat and water.

Mix four cups of flour with the following ingredients: ¾ pound shelled walnuts, one pound seedless raisins, one small package of figs, chop all coarse.

1 tablespoon saleratus mixed with teaspoon vinegar.
Now mix everything thoroughly and bake in fruit cake forms.
Bake one hour or more in a moderately heated oven.

No butter or eggs are used in this cake and the cake reaches its best flavor after a week.
More or less of the nuts and fruits may be used in this cake, according to individual tastes.

How shall normal moral standards and decent habits be maintained without opportunity for cleanliness, comfort, society, mental and moral stimulus?

Truly this is "when a feller needs a friend."

The Y. M. C. A. is the friend—the experienced friend—the wide-awake, sympathetic, intelligent and ever-present friend of our million men.

Its work is to keep the soldier fit

COW TESTING ASSOCIATIONS

By P. G. HOLDEN.

IN DAIRY sections of the country nothing does more to improve the herds than the organizing of cow testing associations.

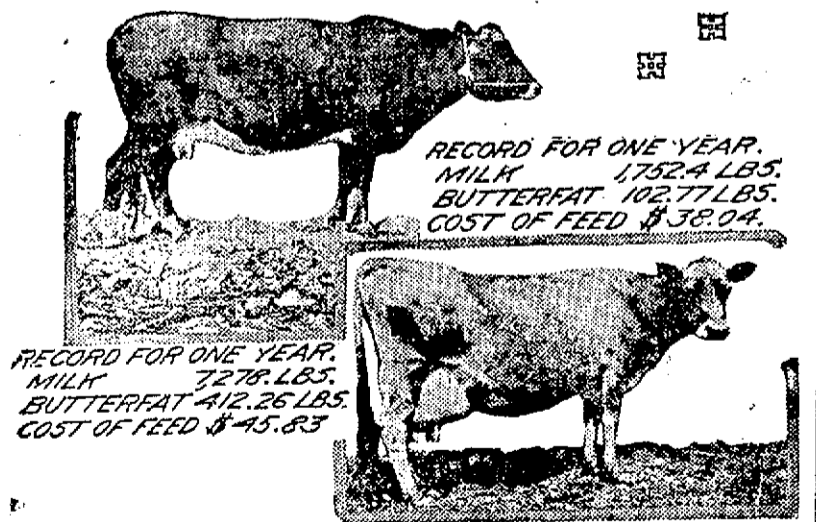

Cows differ widely in their productive ability and the only accurate measure of a cow's production is obtained by weighing and testing her milk. The most practical method is found in the co-operating cow testing association, since it furnishes a cheap, accurate method of testing.

The cow testing association puts dairy operations on a business basis. The profit and loss account enables us to cull out the unprofitable cows. The yearly records will indicate the high producers from which the calves should be saved to build up the herd.

The official tester is an expert on dairy subjects. His advice is ours for the asking. It will help us.

This information will enable us to introduce the most economical methods of feeding and the most up-to-date methods of handling our herd.

developing a better market for products, and in holding dairy meetings. It fosters better community spirit among the dairymen and breeders. The cow testing association is the cheapest and best way to keep records of the dairy herd.

Testing Associations Are Needed.

According to the Department of Agriculture, there were 163 co-operative cow testing associations in this country in 1914. Inasmuch as the first of these associations was formed in Michigan in 1905, this seems like a rapid growth until we consider the fact that in Europe there were, at that time, nearly 3,000 such associations. Those who have had experience with these associations are united in the opinion that every dairy community should have one.

The average dairy cow of this country produces something like 4,000 pounds of milk in a year and approximately 180 pounds of butterfat. This is not profitable dairying, according to the best authorities. Yet farmers cannot greatly increase dairy production unless they apply the scales and Babcock test to their individual cows and find out which cows pay for their feed and which do not. The co-operative cow testing association enables all the dairy farmers of a community to test all their cows. With an average of 25 members, the cost of such an association usually amounts to from $1 to $1.50 per cow per year.

Improvement in dairy production necessitates an improvement in the dairymen as well as improvement in the cow, and improvement in the dairy methods. The cow testing association opens the dairymen's eyes and makes of his business an exact profession.
